

Abstract

Singularities are important from phenomenology point of view. Since , the general relativity's singularities have been noticed by physicists and mathematicians . Certainly , cosmic background will have effect on collapse quality. Of course , special models and simplification will show some aspects of this event . In this thesis we try to introduce some models and their conclusions.