

Abstract

We review the prospect of future neutrino-less double beta decay experiments for obtaining information on the absolute mass scale of neutrinos, resolving sign ambiguity of 13-mass square difference and CP-violating phases of lepton sector.