

The holographic complexity will be discussed in a background which includes a critical point in the dual field theory. We will show how the complexity rate and the saturation time of dynamical variables in the theory behave as one moves towards the critical point.