

Using a cosmological black hole model proposed recently, we have calculated the quasi-local mass of a collapsing structure within a cosmological setting due to different definitions put forward in the last decades to see how similar or different they are. Using the general relativistic model for structures in a cosmological background, we calculated the test particle geodesics within a structure such as a galaxy or a cluster of galaxies in order to obtain the velocity profile of stars or galaxies.