

Massive rank two antisymmetric tensors arise naturally in the context of string theory and also in the description of meson interactions in hadronic physics. In this talk I will discuss further applications of massive Kalb-Ramond fields as candidates for new physics beyond the electroweak scale.